

Table with columns for employee ID, name, and various numerical fields representing salary and benefits. The table is organized into two main sections, one on the left and one on the right, separated by a vertical line.